

to give practical effect to the pact, and, second, he desired some provision for an extension at the end of ten years.

Thus apparently M. Briand sought and expected to obtain what M. Poincaré is understood to be demanding, except that the new French premier is credited with the intention of having Great Britain and France guarantee Poland against possible German attack.

See Improvement of Relations.

Improvement of Franco-British relations is looked for by the Journal des Debats under M. Poincaré's premiership.

"Under Briand the countries lived," says the newspaper, "like an unhappily married couple, passing the time in wranglings and reconciliations, sometimes walking arm in arm, sometimes sulking. France always paying the expenses of reconciliation. With M. Poincaré the relations will again become normal."

"Without repudiating the supreme council which may be necessary to sanction decisions previously reached between the governments, M. Poincaré holds that affairs should be studied and discussed by the foreign ministers and ambassadors."

"No Branch of London."

The paper then prints what it alleges to be the remarks of many men in the street to the effect that Mr. Lloyd George is ambitious to hold the supreme diplomatic high command in Europe, is treating the French like children, and saying: "We love you; let us make you happy and look after your interests."

But, adds the Debats, "Paris is no branch establishment of London or New York."

Lloyd George Pushes Plans.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—[By United News.]—Prime Minister Lloyd George, checked temporarily in his program for the regeneration of Europe, will permit no delay in his intensive campaign to reach a solution of a dangerous international situation, which has been rendered doubly critical by the overturn of the Briand government in France. Every force in Downing street will at once be turned to the three dominant ideas of the premier's foreign policy:

FIRST—A general reconstruction of the entire cordial.

SECOND—The success of the Genoa economic conference.

THIRD—The creation of a new association of nations, embracing Russia and the United States and Germany which Lloyd George hopes to see as a result of the Genoa meeting.

Until the Poincaré government is firmly established in Paris the proceedings will necessarily be extremely delicate.

May Work Without France.

If France refuses to join Mr. Lloyd George in his program, it is intimated, Great Britain will proceed with the other European nations in the work of restoring normal conditions in Germany and Russia. At the same time it is admitted that the refusal of France to participate in the new association would have the same effect as that suffered by the league when it was organized without the participation of the United States, Germany, or Russia.

Mr. Lloyd George hopes to make his proposed federation economically and politically attractive to the United States, but it is recognized that France's remaining aloof might have

ISOLATION OF FRANCE

1—France seems to be isolated in Europe by the resignation of the Briand government and the rise of M. Poincaré as premier. England will not guarantee the French continental program unless France trips its military and naval plans, and to this France will not agree.

2—Italy stands by England.

3—France chiefly fears Germany and much of its program consists in repressing the latter.

4—France and Spain have had a tiff over customs, which has wrecked trade between the two countries.

5—France owes the United States large sums.

6—France's one friend on the continent is Poland, created by France to counter Germany and check Russia.

7—Russia owes France large sums of money. France's efforts forcibly to collect it have produced a number of little wars in the last two years. Russia has lately expressed a willingness to discuss payments.

8—The conference at Genoa, scheduled for next March, when an effort will be made to settle these problems.

a restraining effect on American thought.

The first task to occupy the British diplomats returning Sunday night from Paris is to lay the groundwork for the Genoa conference. A committee will meet in London immediately to arrange the agenda and details of the proposed consortium. Another delegation may leave at once for Moscow for preliminary work connected with the soviet government's participation in the conference.

NEW "AMERICAN VALUATION" HAS SAME OLD FOES

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The American valuation plan, in slightly modified form, which, its opponents allege, will operate to boost prices of imported and competitive domestic articles, appears to be on the verge of approval by the senate finance committee.

While not in the exact form of valuation provided by the Fordney bill, under which the value would be estimated on the basis of what it would cost to manufacture the same article with American labor and in American factories, the scheme is an American valuation plan in the sense that it contemplates the use of the American selling price of the imported article as the basis for assessing ad valorem duty.

Manufacturers Dissatisfied.

The manufacturing interests are not so well pleased with the proposed substitute as with the original plan. Duties in many cases will not be boosted to the same levels as if the value of the comparable American made article were the basis. The manufacturers, however, figure that the importers will sell their goods for almost as much as competitive American articles would cost, thus furnishing a basis of valuation providing much greater protection to the American manufacturer with a moderate rate of duty than if a somewhat higher duty were imposed on the low foreign cost.

The importers find almost as many objections to the proposed substitute plan as to the original American valuation plan. Approval of the proposed substitute will, in effect, be a sweeping victory for advocates of American valuation.

Hope for Agreement Today.

Republican members of the senate finance committee hope to reach a final decision on the question tomorrow or by the middle of the week. They said today that indications rested during the battle of Jan. 15, the couch was carried off in an automobile.

'BLACK AND TANS' REBEL AS THEY QUIT IRELAND

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] [Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.] DUBLIN, Jan. 15.—Disaffection among the British auxiliary police now being demobilized took a serious turn today. The men, who are dissatisfied with the terms of unemployment, are understood to have refused to obey orders.

Dublin castle officials visited Beggar Bush barracks in an effort to restore order and discipline. Two hundred auxiliaries left en route for England tonight.

The "black and tans" face heavy cuts in pay as well as subsequent loss of their jobs when leaving Ireland. British officials are prepared to begin turning the Dublin castle government over to the Irish Free State provisional government tomorrow. Michael Collins, who heads the provisional government, is expected to meet the lord lieutenant early in the day to complete arrangements for the transfer.

Arrest Armed Men.

BELFAST, Jan. 15.—[By the Associated Press.]—Members of the Royal Irish Constabulary in County Tyrone today arrested ten occupants of automobiles bound from Managh to Londonderry, who said they were Gaelic football players but who wore Irish republican army uniforms.

Several of the men are declared to have carried loaded revolvers, and arms are alleged to have been found in the cars.

One of the men arrested is believed to be an Irish republican army officer. He carried dispatches which are described as "important."

Father Dominic was the spiritual adviser of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, who died on a hunger strike in prison in 1920.

Father Dominic sent a message to Arthur Griffith asking immediate intervention for the release of Irish men and women arrested in Great Britain, including Corporal McGowan and companions of the Connaught Rangers placed in jail in England for alleged mutiny in India.

LEAGUE STILL LIVES, WILSON TELLS THROG

Opponents Ignore It at Their Peril.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The silence studiously maintained ever since he left the White House on March 4 last, Woodrow Wilson, former President of the United States, tonight renewed his faith in the vitality of the league of nations.

Responding to the greetings of several thousand men and women who marched to his S street home this evening, following a mass meeting at the new National theater, at which the local campaign for the Woodrow Wilson Foundation was launched, Mr. Wilson declared "there can be no doubt as to the vitality of the league of nations," and that "it will take care of itself," and those who "don't care if it will have to look out for themselves."

Gompers Speaks for Crowd.
Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor and member of the official advisory committee to the American delegation in the Washington conference on limitation of armaments, was the spokesman for those who marched nearly two miles from the theater to the Wilson residence.

Addressing Mr. Wilson on the latter's doorstep, Mr. Gompers declared the demonstration furnished proof that the league was not dead, that those who had attended the mass meeting live in Mr. Wilson's spirit and that their activities in the future would mobilize public sentiment.

Mr. Wilson Is Happy.
"Mr. Gompers and fellow citizens," Mr. Wilson replied. "I need hardly tell you that such a demonstration and evidence of friendship makes me very happy. There can be no doubt as to the vitality of the league of nations. It will take care of itself. Those that don't care if it will have to look out for themselves. I have no anxiety for it."

"My only anxiety is to see our great people turn their backs on the right direction and move with all their force. I thank you very heartily for all this. I don't deserve it, but I enjoy it, nevertheless."

The former President, in a silk hat and heavy overcoat, was assisted to the door by Mrs. Wilson, who shared with him the plaudits of the crowd. While lacking the volume of his more vigorous days, Mr. Wilson's voice was strong enough to carry to most of those who jammed the street in front of his home.

Guarded by Mrs. Wilson.
At one point, when the cheers became especially vociferous, Mr. Wilson made a motion as though he intended to walk down the steps and shake hands with those nearest, but he was restrained by Mrs. Wilson.

After more cheering he retired inside the house. Not satisfied, the crowd continued the demonstration, and only dispersed after Mrs. Wilson had twice opened a second floor window and waved her hand, and the former President again appeared to bow acknowledgments from behind a closed window.

The march from the theater was led by Senators Walsh (Mont.), Fletcher (Fla.), and Harris (Ga.). The motion, made by an unidentified man, which led to the pilgrimage was adopted unanimously at the meeting, which had been addressed by Mr. Gompers, Dr. Samuel T. Eliot of Boston, son of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university; Hamilton Holt of New York; John Temple Graves, Charles Edward Russell, and others, in behalf of the foundation's program to collect a fund of $1,000,000 for scholarships in honor of Mr. Wilson.

GERMANS WORRY ABOUT BREAD, NOT EX-KAISER

Price Boost to Bring Great Unrest.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.)

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—Accustomed as Germany is to political bombshells thrown into its more or less orderly midst by the entente, the last demands from the victors caused no especial walling or gnashing of teeth.

The desire of the supreme council's war crimes committee to have the former emperor, Kaiser Wilhelm, extradited and tried abroad caused far less anger than the Cannes demand that the bread subsidy be ended.

The bread price order affects the entire working and middle classes and means the 7 mark loaf has gone. It means that bread will cost about 5 cents a pound for workers earning 30 cents daily. In short, it means a wave of unrest, agitation, and strikes affecting the stability of the government.

Politicians say it is too late to try submarine commanders and prison camp officers, for too many years have passed since the crimes were committed.

The Leipzig Supreme court itself will not call Marshal Ludendorff to answer charges of treason for alleged intrigue in the Kapp revolution. As far as the minority is concerned, they mostly have disappeared or the evidence against them has grown stale.

This chapter is closed according to the German view.

The troubles over the bread prices are, however, just beginning. The government today is planning the entente for the removal of the bread subsidy, which cost the treasury millions of marks, claiming it is one of the many instances of the entente's moves to block the rehabilitation of German finances.

A Winning Coup

Officials of the "L" lines yesterday ended the controversy over the question of reopening the station at Kinzie street by the simple expedient of tearing the structure down on a day when the only force which stop them was not in session.

It was not until after 10 o'clock yesterday that Ald. Frank J. Link, leader of the fight to have the station reopened, was notified that workmen were busy engaged in tearing the structure down. He hurried to Kinzie street and attempted to have the work stopped.

He was shown several permits authorizing the destruction of the structure. The alderman then protested to the police. They were unable to take action in view of the fact the "L" officials had the proper credentials.

ALLAHABAD, India, Jan. 15.—The Moplah rebels' attempt to cross the Beypore river into Calicut was shattered by Gurkhas, who hurled them back after sharp fighting and gradually encircled the rebels.

The Moplahs are making raids from the jungles, looting neutral natives' crops and killing objects. New Moplah concentrations are reported at Puliyokot. British troops are attacking throughout the Tamarassery district, the rebels fleeing to the forests.

Courts martial sentenced eighteen Moplahs, each to ten years' imprisonment for assaulting constables on duty at Edavanna station.

WHO HAS IT NOW? WHO BOUGHT IT? AT WHAT PRICE?

Matchless Rope of Pearls Still a Mystery.

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—From all angles the mystery of the "vanishing pearls"—the disappearance of that magnificent million dollar necklace which a Russian empress once wore, and over which the great jewelry firms of Cartier and Breguet are at legal odds—remained impenetrable today.

Society joined the gem trade in guessing who the lucky lady is, who got the necklace. No such treasure as that string of 389 flawless pearls, whose clasp is a miniature of Catherine, once empress of all the Russias, had flashed on New York's social consciousness in recent months, it was agreed.

Could a woman possessing perhaps the most gorgeous jewels in the world keep them hidden—and still be a woman?

For that citizen of substance who paid $825,000 for the necklace—or was it $1,500,000, to be sure?—search proceeded likewise in vain. He was willing, apparently, to let knowledge of a good deed done be its own reward.

Between the mysterious purchaser and the publicity he deprecates, still stands an uncompromising barrier of silence.

Glimpse Behind the Veil.

Just once the flap of mystery seemed on the point of lifting. Maurice Leon, attorney for Cartier's, had refused to talk. And then he was asked a question which slightly stirred him:

"Has the luxury tax been paid yet?"

"It was paid at the time of the sale," the lawyer quickly said.

"What did the tax amount to?"

"Mr. Leon couldn't be sure. He thought it was 5 per cent and was quite confident it hadn't been as much as 10 per cent. Then he stopped talking."

Just a morsel was this bit of information, but it served at least to close one channel of speculation which seemed to lead toward interesting possibilities. There had been an intangible suggestion before that the question of taxes paid or not paid might develop into a lively issue at the trial of Vitali and Leopold Benguet's claim against Cartier's for $380,075 in "undivided profits."

Exactly Why They Quarrel.

The Benguets assert they turned over the necklace to Cartier's after bringing it into the United States, under an arrangement whereby any amount which they brought above $500,000 was to be divided equally between the two firms.

Cartier's acknowledged their share in the transaction, but insist the figure at which the pearls changed hands was $825,000. The Benguet contention is that the price was at least $1,500,000.

JAPAN DECIDES BONIN ISLANDS ARE 'MAINLAND'

TOKIO, Jan. 15.—[By the Associated Press.]—That the Bonin islands, belonging as they do to the Tokyo prefecture, properly constitute a part of the mainland, and must be so regarded and, therefore, excluded from the zone of fortification limitation, is alleged to be the decision of the Japanese cabinet.

The Nichi Nichi today quotes a foreign office authority as saying the question is not of the most importance to Japan.

May Necessitate Agreement.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[By the Associated Press.]—Insistence by the Japanese that the Bonin islands be regarded as part of Japan may necessitate some specific agreement as to fortification of those possessions, in the opinion of some delegates to the arms conference.

CHINA TOTTERS ON FINANCE ROCK; CIVIL WAR NEAR

Everybody Is in Debt on "Settlement Day."

BY DONALD PATTERSON.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune.)
SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 16.—The entire economic structure of China is tottering as the annual days of settlement—the Chinese New Year holidays—approach.

The government's inability to meet its obligations, general business conditions and widespread speculation have all combined to bring about what prominent members of the Chinese Bankers' society call the worst crisis in the history of modern China.

New threats of civil war are also menacing the Peking government. The cabinet, it is reported, has replied to the ultimatum of Gen. Wu Pei Fu declaring it will not resign.

Gen. Wu Threatens War.
Gen. Wu has large military forces in Hupeh under his command and is known to be seeking alliances with various other military governors.

There are reports also that he may join forces with Dr. Sun Yat Sen, head of the South China republic. In his ultimatum, Gen. Wu said if the cabinet, which he accuses of being pro-Japanese, did not resign he would march against Peking.

In the economic situation, however, bankers here see peril to China even greater than civil war, because the crash which they fear is at hand will hit the whole nation.

The banks of Shanghai face a shortage on settlement day of $25,000,000, according to estimates made today.

These are largely due to overdrafts by the Peking government. Peking banks are heavily involved with government paper. The total government overdrafts in native Chinese banks is fixed at $75,000,000, none of which the government is in position to pay.

Many Capitalists Cramped.
Many of the largest industrial capitalists of China are known to be cramped for funds and are facing liquidation. Many of Shanghai's business leaders, it is feared, will be caught in the crash.

The naval authorities of the Yangtze valley still hold possession of the salt revenue stations and are using the money collected to pay their men. This is off one of the few substantial sources of revenue of the Peking government.

WHI Not Fight Wu.
PEKING, Jan. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—High government officials say that if Gen. Wu Pei Fu, who is moving large bodies of troops northward from Hupeh attempts forcibly to elect the Peking cabinet, the Manchu troops will refuse to fight.

The Peking government would withdraw, it is declared, leaving Wu Pei Fu in possession of the capital, believing him unable to organize a government, to meet foreign obligations, and to reorganize internal finances.

Therefore his occupation of Peking, in the opinion of the officials, would mean ruin.

RUSSIA'S DEBT PLEDGE DEPENDS ON OUTSIDE AID

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Until Russia knows what assistance the foreign powers will give toward her reconstruction it is impossible to make a statement about the payment of foreign debts," said Maxim Litvinoff, chief of the soviet legations abroad, in a statement today.

"Russia now is unable to pay, and cannot estimate her ability to pay in the future unless she learns what outside financial help she will receive. That is a matter for negotiation."

M. Litvinoff's statement was virtually a reiteration of what Leon Trotsky, Leonid Krassin, and other soviet leaders said prior to being informed of the invitation to the Genoa conference, and there is no indication there will be a change in the soviet position. Litvinoff added that Genoa was an undesirable location for a conference because of the inadequate facilities for telegraphic or wireless communication with Moscow. Furthermore, he said, Italy had not been able to protect the soviet representatives in that country from attacks and that the Russians regarded it as an unsafe place.

London, he declared, was a desirable point for the holding of the conference and would be excellent from the standpoint of being a center of communication with their time governments with all the delegations.

State Troops Guard Trial of Kentucky Feud Slayer
Manchester, Ky., Jan. 15.—Armed with rifles and two machine guns, fifty state guards under command of Maj. James K. Dillon, arrived here late today and tomorrow morning will go on duty at the Clay county courthouse, where the trial of Steve Martin, alleged feudist, charged with the murder of Wood Burge, will begin. This is the sixth time in the last twelve months that state troops have been ordered out in Kentucky to protect Circuit courts.

OCEAN FREIGHTER EN ROUTE HERE IS TIED UP BY ICE

With its prow pointed toward Chicago, the steamship George W. Clyde, which has been fighting its way from Philadelphia through stormy seas and ice-choked rivers since early in December, has dropped anchor in Detroit. J. C. Hoskins, general manager of the Chicago Steamship lines, reported last night.

Until ice in the Detroit river breaks, he said, the Clyde, a veteran ocean freighter making its maiden fresh water voyage, will be unable to proceed on the last leg of its trip. The Clyde has encountered many vicissitudes on the great lakes trip. Icebound in Lake St. Clair several days, it was released last Friday.

The voyage already has cost the ship's owner $25,000, Mr. Hoskins said. Two thousand tons of sugar and other merchandise constitute the cargo.

SEIZED WITH DRUGS.
St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 15.—Six Chinese were arrested today when the police seized opium smoking outfits and a quantity of sum cotton.

Henrici's

Too many people, young and old, are overlooking the distinct cultural advantages of good theatrical performances.

How can anyone, without some very definite, compelling reason, justify neglect to see and hear Sothorn and Marlowe at the Great Northern, where theatrical history worth while is in the making?

And there is other entertainment, within the Loop, that is not mere pastime.

Incidentally, "after the show," one may gather, from the great number of the patrons there, the impression that "almost everyone goes to Henrici's after the theatre."

THE consensus of opinion is that the Type 61 Cadillac, at the new substantially reduced prices, constitutes the greatest motor car value Cadillac has ever offered.

It is not surprising, moreover, that this comment should receive its most enthusiastic expression from those who are most familiar with the luxurious riding ease, the instant acceleration and the mechanical refinements of the Type 61 car.

In the face of this volume of approval, those who anticipate the purchase of a new Cadillac should place their orders now. Orders will be filled in rotation as they are received.

NATIONAL COAL STRIKE AGAINST PAY CUT LOOMS

Prophesy Walkout Before March 31.

There will be a coal miners' strike not later than March 31, probably, unless operators or officials of the United Mine Workers of America recede from stands they have taken and now hold.

Proposals to reduce miners' wages and eliminate the check-off system, under which dues and other union assessments are deducted from the workers' pay, have bred a controversy that is rapidly developing into a "crisis," operators and union leaders are agreed.

Indications are that new agreements between employers and the union cannot be effected April 1.

Would Force Pay Cut.

Definite strike threats notwithstanding, operators of this state are determined to force a wage reduction, according to Dr. F. C. Honnold, secretary of the Illinois Coal Operators' association. Rice Miller, president of the organization, recently declared war on the check-off system. Operators of other states in the central competitive district have assumed a similar attitude on these issues.

Either an attack on the "check-off" or an effort to reduce wages will provoke a strike, according to Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois Miners' union.

"There must be wage reduction before coal prices can come down," said Dr. Honnold last night in connection with an explanation of a table he has compiled showing the scale paid miners in this state, as compared to the wages in eastern mines and in other industries.

Big Per Cent for Labor.
"Out of every dollar spent in taking coal out of an Illinois mine and putting it into a railroad car, ready for shipment to a consumer, 70 to 72 cents is paid to labor."
"In the first twenty year period fol-

"SMILING DIMPLES"

Mrs. Mae Gregory, whose wistful smile at the antics of a 3 year old, so like the romps of her own boy, recently taken from her, gains Tribune's $100 reward.

Following the closed shop organization of all Illinois mines (1898-1917) the mining rate paid to tonnage men—the "piece workers" who are paid by the ton—was advanced about 200 per cent. The rate of wages paid to men working by the day, who were then considered solely as common laborers, was advanced only about 72 per cent, or from $1.75 to $3 per day.

"During the war period, or since April, 1917, the tonnage men have been advanced an additional 75 per cent and the day wage men 150 per cent, or from $3 to $7.50 for an eight hour day.

Characteristic of War Time.
"Such extreme increase in wage payment to unskilled manual labor was, of course, characteristic of all wage adjustments made during the war period and was one of the very notable policies of the various governmental agencies, these such bodies determining all but one (that of April 1, 1917) of the wage advances granted to the bituminous miners during the war and since."
"Miners universally insist that a

SMILES SHINING THROUGH TEARS WIN DAY'S $100

Grief for Dead Boy Can't Cloud Cheerful Face.

"Smiling Dimples," walking along Sheridan road and thinking of a small new mound in the cold graveyard; of a little chap that she sent away in a white hearse a few weeks ago—but smiling bravely nevertheless—almost bumped right into THE TRIBUNE smile detector yesterday afternoon, and in the next minute found herself possessed of $100 reward for her cheerfulness.

"Smiling Dimples" is what they call her in their easy, familiar way at the loop restaurant where she is nightly the custodian of the patron's hats and wraps. At home she is just plain Mrs. Mae Gregory, 4913 Winthrop avenue, custodian of a stout heart and a determination to find sunshine even among the clouds.

Years Leave Little Impress.

Paraphrasing it may be stated that Mrs. Gregory appears much more like a Miss than a Mrs., although she has been the latter for more than five years. And that, of course, is as it should be.

She had been ill for a week or more, she told the smile detector, and yesterday for the first time in ten days felt strong enough to essay a constitutional along Sheridan road near her home. It was somewhere between Winthrop avenue and Argyle street that the smile detector detected her. He saw her walking along intent upon watching a lusty youth in rompers—one would place him roughly at 3 years old—who toddled along on the opposite side, of the street.

This lad was in fine fettle and romped upon the sidewalk some ten feet in advance of a man and woman, who from their demeanor one might have surmised were his parents.

Smiles for the Youngster.
"Smiling Dimples" had caught him coming toward her—albeit on the other side of the street—from afar. A tender smile played about her lips as she watched him. Now the little chap was directly opposite her and she turned and watched and smiled. Now he was behind her and she walked with her head still turned to smile and smile and watch him.

And it was thus that the smile detector caught her. He had to sidestep to keep her from walking right on to his toes, so intent was she upon the toddling child.

The smile detector had intended to say something humorous to her; something funny and interesting, so that he could put it in his story—but when he tapped her on the arm and she turned to him suddenly, there was a strange mist in her eyes.

So he just couldn't think of anything to say except simply that he was the smile detector and he wanted to present her with $100 because he had found her smiling in a Sunday afternoon street, where so many walked who didn't smile.

She said simply that she was glad; and then she explained her interest in the child across the street.

"You see," she said, "I have always been so fond of children; and then I used to have a little boy of my own like that one—just about his age. Diphtheria took him away from me a few weeks ago. He used to toddle and wobble along that way, always a few feet ahead of us, when my husband and I went out walking in the evening. That little fellow reminded me so much of him."

FRIENDS CHARGE NEWBERRY FOES WITH DISHONESTY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Friends of Senator Newberry are aroused over discovery of what they believe were dishonest tactics resorted to in the effort to unseat the Michigan senator last week.

When the voting began, Senator Curtis, the Republican whip, announced the pairing of Senator Watson of Georgia, for seating, with Senator Norbeck of South Dakota for unseating Newberry.

Watson was absent and Norbeck withheld his vote at first.

Senator Townsend of Michigan had informed Senator Curtis he had the authority of Watson to pair the Georgian in favor of Newberry.

Before the result was announced, Senator Underwood, the Democratic leader, informed Senator Curtis that Watson's secretary had sent word to cancel the pair. Senator Curtis announced the cancellation and Norbeck voted against Newberry.

Senator Watson stated today that neither he nor his secretary had authorized cancellation of the pair and intimated he would ask for an investigation. Senator Underwood says the message to cancel came by telephone and that he had believed it genuine.

AGREEMENT ON SHANTUNG NEAR, OBSERVERS SAY

Week May See All Parley Problems Solved.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[By the Associated Press.]—If the Shantung negotiations make the progress hoped for by conference leaders during the next two or three days, the end of the coming week may see all of the issues raised in the Washington negotiations well on the way toward solution.

Confidence that the Shantung problem is nearing a settlement was apparent in most quarters tonight, the delegates feeling that with the other far eastern questions in abeyance, the separate exchanges between the Chinese and Japanese over the former German leasehold would be pressed forward rapidly.

Neither of the two groups directly interested was prepared to suggest an agreement was in sight, but they evidenced a hope that fresh instructions from Tokio and Peking, expected hourly, might help materially to clear up the situation.

Take Up Far East Next.

As soon as Shantung is out of the way and perhaps sooner, the conference far eastern committee will resume its consideration of other problems of the orient. On most of the remaining issues the delegations already have informed themselves thoroughly regarding the views of other groups and the prospect for an agreement.

The naval negotiations also appear to be as good as completed, the treaty text agreed to by the "big five" being regarded as virtually certain to meet the approval, successively, of the full naval committee and of the conference itself, sitting in plenary session. Both of these meetings probably will be held during the coming week.

Settlement of the Shantung question will rest largely in the hands of Arthur J. Balfour and Secretary Hughes in the opinion of Chinese spokesmen. Both the Chinese and Japanese delegations tonight were waiting instructions from their governments as to the attitude they must take on the Hughes-Balfour compromise suggestions. These touch upon the method of payment for the Beijing-Tientsin railway and the nationality of the men who will hold the positions of traffic manager and chief accountant for the railroad after its transfer.

Views of Chinese Delegates.

At the Chinese delegation headquarters, there was said to be "hope without optimism," that the Shantung question will be settled through the Japanese giving in on the railway phase of the dispute. In no other way, the Chinese say, can a settlement satisfactory to the Chinese people be reached.

The Chinese declare they are not in the position to recede on the question of principles involved and that there is nothing for them to do but wait in the hope that Mr. Balfour and Secretary Hughes will be able to effect a settlement through the Japanese.

PRESIDENT AND M'CORMICK TALK NEW LEGISLATION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—There was a conference at the White House today between President Harding and Senator McCormick (Ill.) on the legislative program the administration and Republican leaders in congress intend to have passed at this session.

The President summoned the senator for a discussion of the plans tentatively agreed upon by the leaders at the McCormick dinner last week. He approved the program and expressed appreciation of the team work displayed. There will be a further consideration of the program at a dinner to which the President will invite a number of Republican senators and representatives within the next fortnight.

It has been determined to attempt no combination of the soldier bonus and foreign loan refunding bills, on the ground that such delay might be disappointing to the ex-service men.

DRAMA FOR AND BY CHILDREN IS LEAGUE'S OBJECT

Drama, of the children, for the children, and by the children, is the plan of the Junior league which has organized a child citizen committee to work under the direction of the drama department.

"Through the work of this committee we hope to interest the children of Chicago in the drama," said Miss Alice Gerstenberg, chairman of the drama department. "Next season we plan to produce at least one play written by a child. The competition is open to all children in the city, regardless of any connection with the Junior league."

Miss Virginia Komiss, 485 Surf street, 10 years old and author of fifteen plays, is chairman of the children's committee. At Saturday's performance of "Alice in Wonderland" at the Playhouse, Virginia took the names of all children in the audience, so that she might send them "the rules."

ANOTHER JOINS ARCTIC ATTACK ON STEFANSSON

M'Gill Professor Says Explorer Was Selfish.

Montreal, Que., Jan. 15.—Prof. J. J. O'Neill, geologist of McGill University, tonight took up arms in the controversy begun last week when Dr. R. M. Anderson of Ottawa, second in command of the Stefansson Arctic expedition of 1913, accused the explorer of having subordinated the interests of science to his own personal advantage.

Prof. O'Neill, who was a member of the southern branch of the expedition commanded by Dr. Anderson, said an unsatisfactory basis of organization had caused friction from the first. This friction, he declared, reached a crisis after Stefansson had lost his vessel, the Kariuk, and eleven of its crew, and rejoined the southern party, describing its refusal to hand over its remaining provisions to him as "insubordination, if not actual mutiny."

Difference of Motives.
The crux of the difficulty between members of the expedition and their leader, Prof. O'Neill said, was that they were all in the pay of the Canadian government, while Stefansson, although their chief, looked for income to his writings.

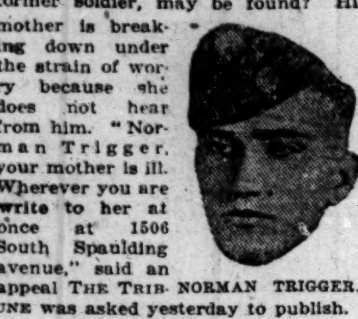

"This arrangement was ridiculous, for he worked with a view of self-betterment from the very beginning instead of in the government's interest," he said.

Stefansson, he asserted, had been charged with purchasing supplies for both divisions, although it was understood each was to operate independently.

At Nome, Alaska, the starting point for the far north, Prof. O'Neill said,

NORMAN TRIGGER, FORMER SOLDIER, SOUGHT BY MOTHER

Who knows where Norman Trigger, former soldier, may be found? His mother is breaking down under the strain of worry because she does not hear from him. "Norman Trigger, your mother is ill. Wherever you are write to her at once at 1506 South Spaulding avenue," said an appeal THE TRIBUNE NORMAN TRIGGER. UZZ was asked yesterday to publish.

"A terrible old whaler awaited us." Stefansson had made the purchase, which he evidently considered good enough for us, but he had taken great pains to make the Kariuk, the northern party's vessel, the finest fitted out ship that ever left for polar seas.

Given Dilapidated Boat.
"The Alaska, as ours was called, was in such a dilapidated state that the inhabitants of Nome were making wagers as to how long it would remain afloat."

"Then came the question of supplies which had been stored at Nome prior to our arrival. Stefansson took nearly two-thirds of these and practically all the provisions. He also appropriated every available sled and dog that Scottie Allen could find. He excused himself by saying that we could easily get along without them as our work would not take us off the continent."

"After the loss of his Kariuk Stefansson joined our party at Collision point. As it was his intention to form a new enterprise to explore Beaufort sea, via the ice route, he demanded what was left of our thousand pounds of pemmican. Our refusal he describes as 'insubordination.'"

Prof. O'Neill said Stefansson's claim that a traveler could live on the game he encountered in the arctic was absurd.

TROOPERS SHOT; BLOODHOUNDS TO AID PURSUERS

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 15.—Lane H. Black and Zachariah W. Taylor, troopers of the state constabulary, were shot and seriously wounded at Dry Branch, on Cabin creek, today while attempting to take into custody H. B. Alford on a writ of capias from Logan county, issued in connection with the armed march last August. The two troopers were brought to a hospital here for treatment.

Col. Jackson Arnold, superintendent of public safety, says the troopers were fired upon by relatives of Alford who, after wounding the officers, succeeded in liberating the arrested man. All escaped, but a detachment of forty state troopers was sent in pursuit, aided by bloodhounds.

This is the first armed resistance encountered by the officials since federal troops were withdrawn from the state.

It is said the lives of the two troopers may have been saved by the entreaties of Mrs. Bertha Trent, who waded across the river to the marksmen hidden in the thicket and persuaded them to stop shooting.

Improved "L" Service Saves Passengers' Time

140,000 Northwestern Elevated riders each day save time by the closing of the Kinzie Street Station. There is no longer a line of delayed trains from Chicago Avenue approaching the Loop.

Why?

Because the station at Kinzie Street, located between the Wells Street Bridge and Franklin Street curve, slowed up the movement of trains three minutes.

Passengers now save this time, and it allows six additional six-car trains to come on to the Loop in the rush hour each day.

The Chicago City Council recognized the benefits to Elevated patrons by passing an ordinance providing for the abandonment of Kinzie Street Station, and the Illinois Commerce Commission ordered this improvement.

ARGUMENTS OF DEMI-WETS HELD ON FALSE BASIS

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

The demi-wets, who have organized the association opposed to prohibition, were accused yesterday of "knowing a lot of things that are not so" by the Rev. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the McCabe Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, Hyde Park.

Dr. Stansfield was one of the ministers who recognized the second anniversary of the passing of the eighth amendment by speaking on law enforcement. Dr. Stansfield's subject was, "Is That So?"

"The chief reason given for the modification of the Volstead law in favor of beer and wine is that prohibition creates disrespect for law," he said.

"This is one of the things that is not so. It was the lawlessness of the liquor element in the days before the prohibitory law that was the final factor which brought prohibition. The constitutional law is not the cause, but only the occasion for certain lawless and anarchistic groups to show their real character."

Dr. Howard Anew Johnston, president of the Chicago council of Gold Star Mothers, has planned a 1922 series of forty-eight parties for the ex-service men who are inmates of Chicago hospitals. At the first party given last Thursday at the Edward Hines Memorial hospital the guests played burlesque and other games and were served home made apple pie, ice cream, cake, and candy. Similar entertainments will be arranged for all other hospitals.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS' HEAD PLANS PARTIES FOR SICK SOLDIERS

Mrs. Anna Brucker, recently elected president of the Chicago council of Gold Star Mothers, has planned a 1922 series of forty-eight parties for the ex-service men who are inmates of Chicago hospitals. At the first party given last Thursday at the Edward Hines Memorial hospital the guests played burlesque and other games and were served home made apple pie, ice cream, cake, and candy. dent of the Chicago Church Federation, said:

"Those who have had personal experience with drinking men know that permission for the use of beer and wine will bring back all the evils attendant on the old liquor business."

"The church ought to capitalize the 16th of January," said the Rev. Emerson O. Houser, president of the Presbyterian Ministers' union and pastor of the Lake View Presbyterian church. Several of the ministers' associations which meet today have announced their purpose to take action concerning the saloon in recognition of the amendment anniversary.

When the Veterinary Visits—

For seven years M. F. Borden has been a loyal Borden's employee, starting as a route salesman in 1914, by dint of efficient labor he was made inspector in 1917. Borden's are proud of employees of Mr. Cure's type.

In the BORDEN'S organization there are a number of high grade veterinaries, Cornell graduates, men of ripe experience in the work of keeping healthy herds healthy. The duty of these men is to visit with the dairy-men who supply BORDEN'S with milk—advise with them on the care of their herds—make tests and see that the dairy and its surroundings measure up to the BORDEN'S standard. The calibre of these veterinaries is evidenced by the fact that the U. S. Government drafted all of them into service during an epidemic in the herds of the Central States. Just another illustration of the type of men in BORDEN'S service—to see that you and yours are always sure of good, pure SAFE milk.

THE CHILDREN AND GEORGE WASHINGTON

More Entries in the Race for $11,650 in The Tribune's Prizes for School Children and Teachers.

Here are more of the essays by boys and girls entered in the George Washington prize contest being conducted by The Tribune. The contest closes on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Success Crowned His Efforts.

George Washington, the first President of the United States, possessed a most remarkable character.

Already in his youth he was taught to live an honest, upright life. While he worked as a surveyor in the country near his home his reputation for honesty gained for him many friends and much employment.

In 1749, during the many skirmishes with Indians who were trying to get land in the west, it was always George Washington who was chosen leader of the hastily organized troops. Success usually crowned his efforts.

Later, in the war for independence, it was again this same man, Washington, who was the acknowledged leader, but this time of good American sharpshooters. Again the Americans were victorious.

It now became necessary for the ungoverned nation to choose some form of government. This was remedied in the form of a President, who is chosen every four years and of which George Washington was the first.

GERTRUDE BUCHHEIS, 710 Elm street, Waterloo, Ia. Age 13. Grade 8B. Lutheran school. Teacher, E. J. Stuck.

The Good American.

The good American is fully illustrated in George Washington. "First in war," he defended his country against a demon of tyranny and preserved the sacred and beloved laws and customs of his grandfathers. Always loyal and ready with his quick wit and experienced mind, he upheld the cause which was right in the sight of God.

"First in peace," he preserved and built up the nation after the ravages of war. Again in peace as in war, his quick wit and far-sighted mind saved the nation from downfall.

Always honest, true, and working for the betterment of his country and fellow men, George Washington has won a place in the hearts of all good and true Americans. He is now, as he was then, "first in the hearts of his countrymen."

BERNARD HOWELL, 709 North Illinois street, Monticello, Ind. Age 14. Freshman. Monticello High school. Teacher, Miss O'Connor.

Courageous, True, Honest.

The greatest man in American history is the father of our country, George Washington. He led the people during war and during peace. He was always ready to serve his country even though it would cost his life. To him we owe much for our freedom and liberty.

He was always courageous, true, and honest. He was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." He is the most beloved of all American statesmen.

Every American should use him as their ideal.

POLICE IMPROVE IN 1921, CRIME COMMITTEE SAYS

Praise of the administration of Chief of Police Fitzmorris formed the bulk of the report of the committee on police of the Chicago crime commission, made public yesterday.

"For 1921 it is a pleasure to state that the department has shown greater efficiency, greater courage and a fuller appreciation of its responsibility and has given a better account of itself as a whole than in many years," CHIEF FITZMORRIS, (TRIBUNE Photo.)

That the department is not yet perfect, however, is conceded by the committee. "There is still laxity, inefficiency and a disposition to avoid responsibility," the report continues. "There are also indications that it is not yet entirely free from baneful and corrupting influences."

Bureau Headquarters Condemned.

The detective bureau, under Chief Michael Hughes, the report says, "has shown marked improvement." Condemnation of the detective bureau quarters is strongly expressed. The committee advocates the establishment of some system of training whereby arresting officers will be more familiar with forms of presentation of cases to courts. More cases could be handled in the municipal courts, the committee says, if "the police officers and witnesses testifying would all cooperate toward that end. This can only be accomplished through the exercise of intelligence and industry in the preparation of the case for the original hearing by the police officer who had it in charge. He cannot do this unless he is conversant with what constitutes a case and unless he knows under what law he brings his charge."

Sketches Year's Work.

In January, 1921, the report says, there were 5,155 employees in the Department of Police. During the year 137 members of the department were found guilty of various charges by the civil service commission. Of these 125 were discharged.

Advocacy of the installation of the most up to date scientific crime fighting methods is expressed in the report.

"The methods of the past must be discarded and a new deal effected all around," the report concludes. "The policing of Chicago must be modernized, put on a business basis and kept there."

Henry P. Crowell, president of the Quaker Oats company, is chairman of the committee. His associates are Bryan Y. Craig, John V. Farwell, Hale Holden, and Calvin Fontress.

Great Labor Conference to Sit in Boston on April 17

Boston, Mass., Jan. 15.—A conference of representatives of all labor unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor will be held here April 17, the Boston Central Labor union announced today. The purpose of the conference, which will be presided over by Samuel Gompers, was not made public.

CARRIERS EXPECT SMALL CHANGE IN RAILROAD RATES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—With their case practically submitted to the interstate commerce commission in the general rate investigation, the railroads of the country believe they have made a showing that will not warrant a substantial reduction in freight rates and passenger charges.

In fact, the railroads oppose any further reduction and take that position solely on the ground that the revenues will not permit general reductions until there have been further substantial cuts in operating expenses.

Although railroad earnings have shown some improvement in recent months, the rail representatives have stressed the point that to a large extent whatever favorable showing was made was due in large part to deferred maintenance and that the railroad equipment and way and structures have not been maintained as they should have been.

LASHED TO CABIN ON HIGH SEAS FOR 2 DAYS; RESCUED

New York, Jan. 15.—Without food and water for two days and during that time lashed to the cabin hatch of their waterlogged craft to prevent them being washed overboard by mountainous seas, Capt. V. M. Cole and seven members of the crew of the American schooner James M. W. Hall arrived here today on the steamship West Canon, which rescued them 250 miles southeast of Cape May, N. J.

Virtually abandoning hope, the shipwrecked crew used its remaining dry match Friday night to set fire to a dishpan of gasoline. The resultant flare was seen from the West Canon, bound here from Java, which immediately headed for it and took off the men.

Advertising Servant of Business!!

The supreme issue of business now is selling. Its cost is so much less than losses which confront most concerns that the next two seasons will undoubtedly witness a development of sales tactics such as trade has never known.

Advertising to the public and printed salesmanship to retailers and jobbers have conclusively proved their economic value for those who have maintained steadfast policies during 1921. Sound advertising counsel is certain to play a most important part in the development of productive selling plans.

The proper relation of advertising to business has been our constant study, and 18 years of organization experience equip us to give aid in the efficient employment of advertising—the servant of business. We welcome opportunity to explain our methods and to show how our service does not increase the cost of advertising.

Better Than Calomel

Thousands Have Discovered
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets
Are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 30c.

TWO WOMEN END LIVES FOR SAKE OF LOVED ONES

Think Themselves a Drag on Family.

Two women—strangers to each other one young, the other old—committed suicide yesterday for the same reason. Each believed she was a burden to her family.

Mrs. Samuel Brown, 31 years old, 1551 North Campbell avenue, wife of a junk dealer, leaped from a fourth story window of the Michael Reese hospital. Mrs. Maria Weirman, 88 years old, asphyxiated herself in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Worth, 1816 Wellington street.

Ill of Nerve.
Mrs. Brown had been in the hospital for several days for treatment of neurasthenia, hospital authorities said. Her husband visited her yesterday afternoon. She seemed optimistic. After he had left she went to the women's restroom. Attacks heard a scream. They found the window open. She was lying on the sidewalk. She died before she could be removed to the hospital.

Leaves a Note.
"My wife often threatened to end her life, but I did not think she meant it," said the husband. They have three children.

Mrs. Weirman, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. Worth, left a note, which read:

"I do not want to be a burden to you any longer, so I am ending my misery."

Mrs. Worth said her mother had been ill for some time.

Jewish Charity Workers Plan Meeting Jan. 26

The Young Men's Jewish Charities has called a meeting of members of all Jewish organizations on the North Side in Temple Sholem assembly hall, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street, Thursday evening, Jan. 26, to enlist aid in the extension of the organization work. Judge Henry Horner of the Probate court will be the principal speaker.

THE DEATH LEAP

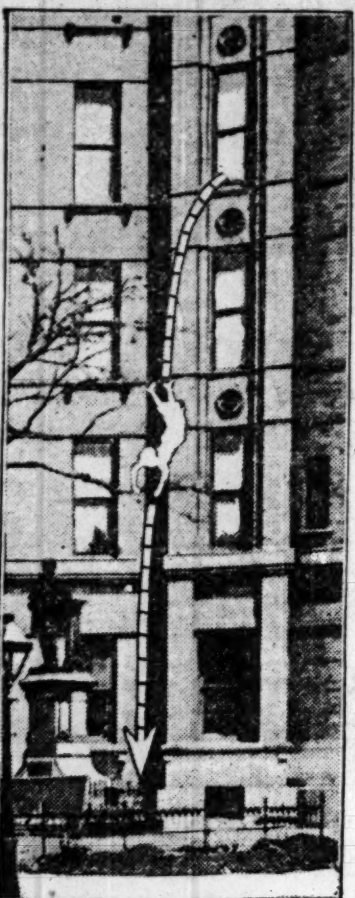

Photo-diagram of window on the fourth floor of the Michael Reese hospital, from which Mrs. Samuel Brown, a neurasthenia patient, sprang and killed herself yesterday.

Dependancy and fear that she was a burden upon her family is said to have been the motive for the suicide.

FALL FROM GRACE CLOUDS HOMES OF TWO PASTORS

Marion, O., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Green Camp, a village of 700 or 800 inhabitants six miles southwest of Marion, is convulsed over the elopement of the Rev. W. W. Crabtree, pastor of the Free Baptist church, with the 36 year old wife of the Rev. H. A. Rough of Morrow county, pastor of Bryn Zion church.

Crabtree's pulpit was declared vacant today and charges of moral turpitude were filed with the Rev. Roberts Hughes of Bucyrus, district superintendent. The latter occupied the Green Camp pulpit this morning, and the revival services conducted by Arthur Arnet, a Moody Bible Institute student, were declared closed tonight. Mrs. Crabtree made public the charges against her husband three days after he disappeared, and trustees of the church established the fact that he and Mrs. Rough left in Crabtree's automobile. Crabtree is said to have told his wife in a note that he was going to Louisiana.

Neither Mrs. Crabtree nor the Rev. Mr. Rough will prosecute, but an uncle of Mrs. Rough has engaged attorneys to prosecute the couple. Action looking to the unfrocking of Crabtree will be brought at once, members of the Green Camp church pulpit committee said today.

Crabtree is 46 years old. He came to Green Camp two years ago from Plain City with his wife and two children, one of whom is a boy 22 years old. The Rev. Mr. Rough, aged 50, has been pastor of Bryn Zion church a number of years. A year ago Crabtree assisted him in conducting a revival at Bryn Zion.

"Let God be their judge," was the only comment of Mr. Rough, when he came here to investigate facts relating to the elopement.

WORKER SCORES HOOVER FOR HIS RAIL CONFERENCE

The Hoover conferences in Washington between labor leaders and members of the Association of Railway Executives constitute an "attempt to establish a super railroad labor board," and will impair the prestige of the board functioning under the transportation act, according to J. G. Luhrs, president of the American Train Dispatchers' association.

"At a time when the labor board must fight to have its powers determined in the federal courts (referring to the injunction suit brought by the Pennsylvania railway) we have a cabinet officer setting himself up as an intermediary between litigants, past, present, and prospective, before the labor board," said Mr. Luhrs in a statement issued here last night.

The statement contends the outcome of the Pennsylvania suit should be awaited and that railway employees should meanwhile keep their faith in the United States railroad labor board.

TAX FREE CIVIC SECURITIES NOW TARGET OF U. S.

May Amend Constitution to Forbid Them.

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—(Special)—Hearings starting tomorrow before the house ways and means committee will mark the beginning of a legislative effort, backed by the administration, to obtain a constitutional amendment prohibiting the future issuance of tax exempt securities by states and municipalities.

While the question has been discussed at different times, congress has not heretofore given it serious consideration. Secretary of Treasury Mellon approved the proposed constitutional amendment in his recent annual report.

In a letter to Representative McFadden (Pa.), who has introduced a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment, Mr. Mellon declared that the ever increasing volume of tax exempt securities represents a grave menace to the revenue which it entails to the federal government, but also because of its tendency to encourage the growth of public indebtedness and to divert capital from productive enterprises.

Mellon to Support It.

Mr. Mellon is expected to appear before the ways and means committee in support of the proposition.

Secretary Mellon's annual report said the treasury estimates the amount of tax exempt securities of states and municipalities now outstanding at approximately $10,000,000,000.

New securities of this character issued during the first eight months of 1921 were estimated by the treasury at $800,000,000. The federal government has outstanding tax exempt securities totaling about $2,500,000,000, including the federal farm loan bonds.

Although treasury officials and many members of congress have become convinced of the need of a constitutional amendment giving the federal government power to tax securities under the authority of the states, strong opposition is expected.

Some of the Objections.

Those who oppose such an amendment point out that it cannot affect existing tax exempt securities, and therefore no increase of federal revenue could come from the outstanding securities. Furthermore, they declare that the amendment would prevent states and municipalities from securing future funds at a low rate of interest, and thus retard development and progress of essential public improvements.

Opponents also argue that capitalists do not simply to escape an income tax, but to invest in securities paying from 4 to 6 per cent when they are able to make larger returns by investing in business or other enterprises. They also contend that the amendment would prevent the funds from being invested to great extent by wealthy individuals in tax exempt securities simply to escape taxation.

3 BROKERS HELD ON COMPLAINT OF BUYERS OF STOCK

New York, Jan. 15.—An alleged stock transaction in the open market, involving 2,700 shares of California Crushed Fruit company, caused the arrest tonight of William Herman, James Graf and Henry Spitz of the brokerage firm of Graf & Co., on a charge of grand larceny.

The complainant, William M. Lennox, member of the brokerage firm of Lennox & Montford, swore the three brokers instructed his firm on Dec. 29 last to buy stock at the market price for Graf & Co., and at the same time threw upon the market, through different brokers, an equal quantity of the stock to be sold at the highest prices obtainable.

The result was, Lennox charged, that the 2,700 shares which Graf & Co. were selling were bought by Lennox & Montford for $12,700. He further charged that when the stock was offered to Graf & Co., in accordance with the original agreement, the firm refused to accept it.

Children to Ask Court for $750,000 Legacy

Robert, Charles, and Genevieve Simpson, who live with their mother, Mrs. Jennie Simpson, 913 Grove avenue, Evanston, will appeal to Circuit Judge Frank Johnson Jr. today in an effort to have their three-fourths interest in their grandfather's $1,000,000 estate given to them. Five aunts are contesting the will in the Probate court on the ground the testator was not of sound mind when he signed the instrument.

Have You Had Your Humour Today?

It's as necessary to the constitution as iron or oxygen. Read more Heywood Brown, Donald Ogden Stewart and George S. Chappell.

Have you taken your fifteen minutes of satire? It's an essential social corrective. Try W. L. George on Women, or Paul Gerdly on Youth.

Do you do your art exercises? They develop the mind. Chin yourself to music with Paul Rosenfeld, or run through Kenneth MacGowan's dramatic dozen.

VANITY FAIR

And now to turn to the illustrations—

There's a portrait (speaking, not of operations, but of operas) of Jeritza, New York's latest sensation, and a group of the Chicago cantricians. There are photographs of Anatole France and Antoine Bourdelle which explain them both. There's a page of the new American literary lights who are challenging the older masters. And then, Asta Nielsen in Hamlet is followed by Gilda Gray in the South Seas, while sketches by George Luks mingle with John Held's masks, Masereel's woodcuts and Fish's ironic cartoons.

Scrap every other New Year's resolution you have made—give up keeping those accounts—stay in bed on Sunday mornings—smoke before breakfast if you like—but hold, O hold to that original resolve—Buy every issue of Vanity Fair in 1922, and have your humour every day.

AND TALKING OF HUMOUR, it would be a funny thing if you were to go to the Automobile Salon before consulting Vanity Fair's article on it and the pictures of the 1922 models, to see what to look for at the Salon itself.

And then when you come back you can settle into your favourite arm chair, light your cigar or open your box of candy, and remind yourself of it all again in our Automobile Department.

Vanity Fair is a magazine built on the most original lines, presenting every type of bearing; but—owing to its unique principles of construction—it entirely eliminates both the crank and the bore.

Any Motor will Run Better with a
WINTERFRONT
Automatic Radiator Shutter

Opens and closes automatically. The Winterfront is a very simple and extremely effective device for automatically controlling the motor temperature. By keeping out all cold air it establishes summer condition for the motor in the shortest possible time. Reduces the use of the choke and the over-rich mixture that fills the crankcase with raw gas (kerosene) and the cylinders with carbon. Saves the motor. One repair bill saved will more than pay for the Winterfront. Used with much profit, pleasure and comfort from September to May. Sold and installed by motor car dealers.

TIME HAS COME FOR UNKINKING TRANSIT KNOTS

Delay Only Increases the Ultimate Cost.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Michigan boulevard improvement could have been completed for a sum between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 if it had been constructed when the city council approved of the plan. The city waited—and it cost nearly $16,000,000.

South Water street could have been revamped a dozen years ago for less than $1,000,000. But the city waited. The estimated cost now is $18,000,000—and at present the city is contemplating the beginning of the court proceedings.

The widening and improvement of Halsted street could have been accomplished when it was surveyed for about $5,500,000. Now the cost has so increased that some consider the improvement impracticable.

At least $2,000,000 could have been saved on the Roosevelt road improvement if it had been completed within a reasonable time after it was started. It has been with other local improvements.

A Score of Reasons.

The Tribune has been persistently urging for months that work start on a really adequate rapid transit system. It urged because of the saving of money in construction, but because of its need as a time saver, a necessary convenience, a promoter of the city's welfare and prosperity, a means of providing useful work for unemployed men.

This editorial campaign has now reached a point where there seems to be an agreement upon certain points. The things that were summarized in THE TRIBUNE yesterday.

This understanding exists between the council committee on local transportation, Henry A. Blair, president of the city, and Samuel Insull, spokesman for the elevated railroads. They haven't agreed on what should be done first, nor where it should be started, nor how it should be done, but all claim they are at the point where they will cooperate to accomplish something of benefit.

The all important question now is: What are the chances of success?

Plans in Embryo.

The answer is not easy because it has not been decided what the agencies intend to do before they start actual construction of adequate rapid transit facilities. It is conceded in many quarters that any successful plan must provide for municipal ownership—in the near future or ultimately. By "municipal" is meant a plan approved by the city council, regardless of whether that claim is correct, the council local transportation committee is proceeding upon that theory at present.

Both Mr. Blair and Mr. Insull may be looking upon as more willing now than ever before to agree to sell the properties they represent, if the city is ready to pay. Once they are satisfied that the securities offered by the city are sound, they will listen attentively, because the price level is higher now than it will be again soon, and they can get more for their properties than hereafter on any basis of acquisition by the municipality.

Therefore it seems that the big factor in municipal ownership at once is soundness of the securities offered by the city. To be sure, the city's debt limitation prohibits the issuance of bonds. Ald. Schwartz proposes the issuance of certificates under the public utility act. On this Mr. Blair shakes with a shrug of favor, while Mr. Insull hesitates. If both should agree to accept the certificates—but no prediction of that kind is here made—then comes the question of price and terms. All of which indicates the open prospect for municipal ownership.

All for Consolidation.

Both Mr. Insull and Mr. Blair, and the committee agree with them, assert there should be consolidation of the surface and elevated lines, and subways built and correlated with the existing systems. All three agree that the subways should be municipally owned. The local transportation committee is now proceeding on the idea of getting a merger of the surface and elevated lines before rapid transit construction is started.

The negotiations have not reached a point where the committee has sought to make an arrangement for the use of the subways when built. If an agreement of that kind is obtained, then the committee could consider subways.

The committee will probably have its next meeting Wednesday or Thursday. However, there will be a session on Tuesday of the committee, which is chasing the $2,000,000 with interest which the surface lines offered the city and was refused.

RAIL SHOPMEN REVIVE TALK OF
STRIKE VOTE

Another week's discussion of the advisability of reviving the strike vote of the more than 400,000 railway shop employees will open here today when the committee of 100 of the Federated Shop Crafts resumes conference that began last Monday. Reliable reports indicate there is a strong faction in favor of authorizing a strike vote, the issue being the working rules for the shop crafts recently promulgated by the United States railroad labor board. The chief objection is to those rules which curtail overtime payment.

The shopmen several months ago voted to strike in protest against the 33 per cent wage reduction of July 1, but deferred action pending announcement of the working rules.

Something to Chuckle Over

"MR. PIM PASSES BY."

A comedy by A. A. Milne. Presented at Powers' theater Jan. 15, 1922. The cast:

Anne Madeleine Barr
Caraway Pim Erskine Sanford
Anah Alison Bradshaw
Brian Strain Leonard Mudie
Olivia Marden Laura Hope Crews
George Marden Dudley Digges
Lady Marden Augusta Harriland

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

I will, perhaps, give you some idea of Mr. A. A. Milne's turn of mind to explain that he is, or used to be, one of the editors of Punch. That is to say, he is English, and amiable, and mellow.

The statement, however, falls far short of conveying the rare flavor of the captivating nonsense which was acted at Powers' last evening. This comedy of Mr. Pim is a droll trifle, light as a thistle-down, but shot through with a quiet, pungent humor that is irresistibly fascinating. It is the sort of thing you like to muse about and chuckle over—together a delightful oddity.

His fable is tedious enough, being concerned merely with the disturbing incidents of an hour or two in the home of George Marden, J. P., of Marden house, Buckinghamshire, England. George does not like new fangled ideas; he is annoyed by the futurist painter of triangular clouds who wants to marry his niece, and profoundly shaken when he contemplates the lively curtains which his wife, Olivia, insists on making for the morning room.

He is, nevertheless, pleasantly in love with Olivia, having contrived a beautiful forgetfulness of the fact that her first husband, one Tellworthy, was an Australian swindler who, as she says, "went to prison a good deal."

So you may imagine his feelings when a doddering, garrulous old gentleman, a stranger in the neighborhood, imparts the casual information that he has but recently seen the Tellworthy person (who is supposed to be dead) on the boat from Australia.

This benign visitant, Mr. Caraway Pim, is as odd a character as was ever conceived by a playwright. He has nothing to do with the play except to drop in, deliver himself of an aimless remark or two, and depart. You are not told who he is or why he is there. But his feeble lips enunciate words of doom.

The household is dismayed. Right

MISS LAURA HOPE CREWS
in "Mr. Pim Passes By."

is right, says George. In the eyes of the law, the church, and God, he has been living in—he cannot say it, but he has. Olivia is no wife of his. She is still Mrs. Tellworthy. She is inclined not to take it quite so seriously, but his horrified conservatism is unyielding.

Then Mr. Pim calls again. He had forgotten to mention that Mr. Tellworthy choked on a fish-bone at Marden's and died. A strange and distressing circumstance, but interesting. Interesting, indeed. The Marden ménage readjusts itself and prepares for a second marriage, making everything legal. Once more Mr. Pim calls, with further amendments. This time he but why spoil the fun?

The play runs along like that, a gay symposium of comic perplexities. Much of its humor lies in its sparkling, nicely pointed dialogue. Much more lies in the acting—notably that of Miss Laura Hope Crews, who is brisk, wholesome and whimsical as the supposedly unwedded wife, greeting her calamities with a twinkle and a way smile. Dudley Digges contributes a richly conceived characterization of a harassed husband, sputtering mildly at the fates that have encompassed him, and Erskine Sanford—a young man of little more than 30—achieves an effective bit of portraiture as the puling Mr. Pim.

When Politeness James Fitzpatrick and William Leachy arrived, the motor patrol five minutes after the crash, Crowe was only partly conscious. At the hospital it was found his jaw and two ribs were fractured. Miss Theresa Scott was badly cut about the face and head and her sister was cut and bruised. Peters also was taken to the hospital but was sent home when an examination showed that he suffered only a few bruises.

Mrs. Crowe, questioned by the police, told of her husband's visit to the home. "He said he was going to the club to take a Turkish bath," she said. "I don't know who the Scott sisters are."

Autos Kill Two.

Amelia Tuttle, 14 years old, 6201 South Halsted street, was run down and instantly killed by an automobile yesterday when she was walking home from church. Charles Swenson, 7233 Perry avenue, driver of the car, was arrested by the Englewood police and is being held pending an inquest today.

Samuel Polokow, 47 years old, 27 South St. Louis avenue, died in the Robert Burns hospital last night from injuries received earlier in the day, when he was run down by a delivery truck driven by Martin Kusek, 327 North Ashland avenue. Witnesses said the accident was unavoidable and Cusack was not held.

Delia M. Pollock, 4 years old, 3953 South Michigan avenue, was run down and killed by an automobile driven by Glenn S. Haynes, 6847 Dorchester avenue. Haynes was arrested.

NEPHEW ADMITS
$1,000 THEFT OF
AUNT'S GEMS

In the arrest of three men last night police say they have solved the mysterious robbery of Mrs. Tillie Mork, 7906 Jeffery avenue, of $1,000 worth of gems by a pseudo cab driver Saturday night.

Those arrested are Frank Ake, 1448 North Hamilton avenue; Milton Madden, 1823 North Tripp avenue; and George Goldert, 1812 Kelyvale avenue. Ake is a nephew of Mrs. Mork.

Ake has confessed, police say, that he and his companions were up John Cherry, 1362 West Monroe street, a cab driver, took his cab and uniform, and called on Mrs. Mork at a dance. They induced her to enter the cab. The robbery followed.

Mrs. Gesella Hirschfeld, 45 years old, 2319 Thomas street, was shot in the right foot early yesterday as she was passing the saloon of Frank Kroll, Division and Paulina streets. Fred Steink, 2136 Thomas street, was arrested and confessed that he had fired the bullet at Joseph Kolnik, 3613 South Lincoln street, in an argument.

HUSBAND TAKES JOY RIDE; 2 GIRLS, HIMSELF HURT

Party Ends When Car Hits

"L" Pillar.

John G. Crowe, 39 South Central Park boulevard, president of the Northwestern Terra Cotta company, went joy riding Saturday night, while his wife was quarantined in their home with their son, Robert, 11 years old, ill with scarlet fever.

At 5 o'clock yesterday morning he drove his car into an "L" pillar at State and Lake streets, smashed it, probably fatally injured himself, seriously injured two girls, and bruised Louis Peters, 23 South Lake Park avenue, said to be his brother-in-law.

Took Food to Sick Son.

The girls are Miss Theresa Scott, 24 years old, and her sister, Miss Betty Scott, 22 years old, both of 3719 Broadway. They and Crowe were taken to the Inglewood Memorial hospital.

According to information gathered by the police assigned to investigate the accident, Crowe went to his home shortly before 9 o'clock Saturday night with some delicacies for his sick boy. He told his wife he was going to the Illinois Athletic club, where he has been living while the quarantine was in force. After leaving his home, it is said, he met Peters and the two girls and took them for a ride.

Police say the party visited several cafes. The girls finally asked to be taken to their home and Crowe was driving north in State street to their Broadway address. It is believed a break in the steering apparatus caused the crash.

All Sent to Hospital.

When Politeness James Fitzpatrick and William Leachy arrived, the motor patrol five minutes after the crash, Crowe was only partly conscious. At the hospital it was found his jaw and two ribs were fractured. Miss Theresa Scott was badly cut about the face and head and her sister was cut and bruised. Peters also was taken to the hospital but was sent home when an examination showed that he suffered only a few bruises.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

[Copyright: New York Tribune, Inc.]

THE VENGEANCE OF HENRY JARROMAN

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Henry Jarroman, released from prison, to which he was sentenced for the murder of Charles Eddis, finds himself a rich man. During the twenty years he spent in prison he nourished his hatred against John Camden, his one time friend, who stole his wife, killed Eddis, and fastened the crime on Jarroman.

When he learns Camden is dead, Jarroman, who has become a powerful man, bids him make his dead enemy's innocent young daughter a victim of his vengeance. Camden's daughter, who believes her name to be Nadia Quest, is employed as a typist by the Lord Douceter.

Stranack's father, is startled when he recognizes a ring Nadia wears and knows her to be Camden's daughter.

Claude Crane, the wife who dishonored and deserted Jarroman, is the proprietor of a smart gambling establishment. Theed, Jarroman's rascally solicitor, visits her and tells her that Jarroman desires to find his daughter, who was two years old when he was imprisoned.

Theed and Nadia conspire to substitute Nadia for the real daughter, with the idea of getting Jarroman's fortune for themselves. When Theed tells Nadia she is the daughter of an ex-convict, she is heartbroken because she feels Lord and Lady Douceter will never sanction her marriage to their son.

INSTALLMENT XII.

"Are you—my father?" she heard herself ask. "I thought—that is to say, I have always been told that my father was dead."

At sound of the shy, sweet voice, some of the indifference left Jarroman's eyes. He tried to smile, to utter a conventional welcome; but for twenty years speech had been an effort.

He drew out a chair, and with a clumsy gesture, invited the girl to be seated.

Nadia possessed to a rare degree the divine instinct of pity. This man—this strange father, back as it were, from the dead—was rich and independent, Mr. Theed had said. Perhaps; but he was also gaunt and lonely looking and embarrassed.

"I hope you will not think me stupid," she said, "but I hardly know what to say to you."

Nadia's face softened slightly at the graceful little apology for an awkward moment.

"I don't know whether Mr. Theed has told you all about—both of us," he said finally. "If not, you had better have the facts. Twenty years ago, when you were two years old, I was sentenced to death. The sentence was commuted. Your mother—who had got into trouble in other ways—deserted you."

Jarroman paused.

"Yes," said Nadia. Her face quivered, but she controlled her emotion. "Mr. Theed told me that. You will understand it's been rather a shock. I often used to think that Quest wasn't really my name or Aunt Hannah's. But to find that I wasn't related to her at all—somehow it all seemed so strange."

"Are you sure there cannot be some mistake? Is it absolutely certain that I am your daughter?"

Beneath her filmy summer gown he could see the quick rise and fall of her breast. She was keyed to a high pitch of feeling, he realized. The discovery came as a surprise—his own emotions were so wholly untouched by the thought of their kinship.

She saw the surprise in his eyes and felt a quick mingling lest she had hurt his feelings.

"Please don't misunderstand me," she faltered. "I only mean that—well—it would put us both in a ridiculous position, wouldn't it, if we were to accept the relationship and it were afterwards proved a mistake?"

"Yes, quite so," agreed Jarroman. He shifted uncomfortably, anxious to shorten the interview. "But I hardly think that is likely. Theed has his facts all neatly arranged. He has your birth certificate and he has been in touch with you for the last twenty years."

"You need not be alarmed, you know," he added. "I do not wish to interfere with your liberty in any way. I shall not ask you to abandon the name you have used if you don't wish to do so. I simply wish to arrange that you shall have what compensation my wealth can give you for the harm your mother and I have done you."

The violet eyes filled with tears. Against his will, he was moved to a faint sympathy.

"O, please don't speak like that." The clear voice was tremulous as a lost child's. "You make me seem so hard and unsympathetic. I am not thinking of—that sort of thing at all. It's all so extraordinary."

Again Jarroman moved restlessly. He realized now that he had expected a shrewd, practical minded young woman whose mind would have been occupied mainly with her altered prospects. This lovely, sensitive girl with her different clay.

RUM FOES STAND AT ARMAGEDDON, WOMAN DRY SAYS

State Head of W. C. T. U.

Pans W. G. N.

Declaring that America is at Armageddon with the Demon Rum, Miss Helen Hood, president of the Illinois W. C. T. U., in an address delivered last night at Evanston, appealed to her colleagues to rally "1,000,000 strong to combat anti-prohibition propaganda of THE TRIBUNE and of other liquor interests."

After referring to the organization in Chicago last Thursday night of the National Association Opposed to Prohibition as "the challenge for the beginning of a pitched battle as important as the world war," she read aloud an editorial, "The New Fight for Liberty," which was published in THE TRIBUNE on Saturday, Jan. 14.

"I wish," she said, "the grand jury would summon these newspaper and magazine writers, and compel them to prove the statements they make about prohibition. I don't know whether or not a newspaper man wrote THE TRIBUNE's editorial. Possibly it was Levy Mayer."

See Menaces Everywhere.

"However, I do know this. Money interests, sinister interests, and the liquor people are promoting a tremendous campaign, seeking to nullify the eighteenth amendment."

"A great newspaper like THE TRIBUNE, with its vast influence, that will so misstate the facts—as was done in that editorial—is a menace to the community."

Miss Hood reminded her auditors—they numbered about 100—in the Delano chapel of the community house—that today is the second anniversary of the ratification of the eighteenth amendment, and that the W. C. T. U. hopes to see in each American home the "Star in the Window" flag. This flag is an honor emblem for dry and is inscribed: "We are Americans. We support the constitution."

Thinks New League "Funny."

Of the National Association Opposed to Prohibition she said:

"Last Thursday night in Chicago there was organized an association for personal liberty. I wish I could have been there. It must have been very funny. A policeman would stop me, light wines and beer, but were opposed to the return of the saloon. How could they possibly get light wines and beer without the saloon?"

"It is the idea some people have of personal liberty: If I were able to drive an automobile, and saw one in Davis street (Evanston) that struck my fancy, I might get in and drive away. A policeman would stop me. He would say, 'There is a law, you know, that will not allow you to steal an automobile.' 'Why, I should say, you are interfering with my personal liberty.' By the same reasoning, men who drink, and thus menace the community, protest that the government is interfering when it forbids them to drink."

"Booze? What Is Booze?"

Miss Hood hopes the W. C. T. U. will see the day when "men and women will ask: What is booze? What is liquor? What is that?" She said she was "very sorry that Mr. McCutcheon drew the cartoon that appeared today (Sunday). I wish every one of this audience would protest every time he or she sees the eighteenth amendment ridiculed in moving pictures, magazines, or on the stage."

An appalling situation exists in Evanston, she said, in the saloons, maintaining well stocked cellars, and this is especially shocking when we consider that Evanston was the home of the late Frances Willard, founder of the W. C. T. U.

"It is the idea some people have of personal liberty: If I were able to drive an automobile, and saw one in Davis street (Evanston) that struck my fancy, I might get in and drive away. A policeman would stop me. He would say, 'There is a law, you know, that will not allow you to steal an automobile.' 'Why, I should say, you are interfering with my personal liberty.' By the same reasoning, men who drink, and thus menace the community, protest that the government is interfering when it forbids them to drink."

Miss Hood said prohibition was not a failure; that those who so allege are either the immune rich or cabaret habitués, and that all "are disloyal citizens."

THREE HE-VAMPS
GET $5,000; NOW
RECLINE IN CELL

Three fashion plate men, now in a cell at the detective bureau, pending investigation, are examined by Detective Sergeant John Noonan and George De Mar as the finest specimens of the he-vamp species ever captured. Each had a book in which were listed the names of from forty to fifty women with addresses, telephone numbers, and cryptic notations, which, the police assume, relate to their domestic and financial status.

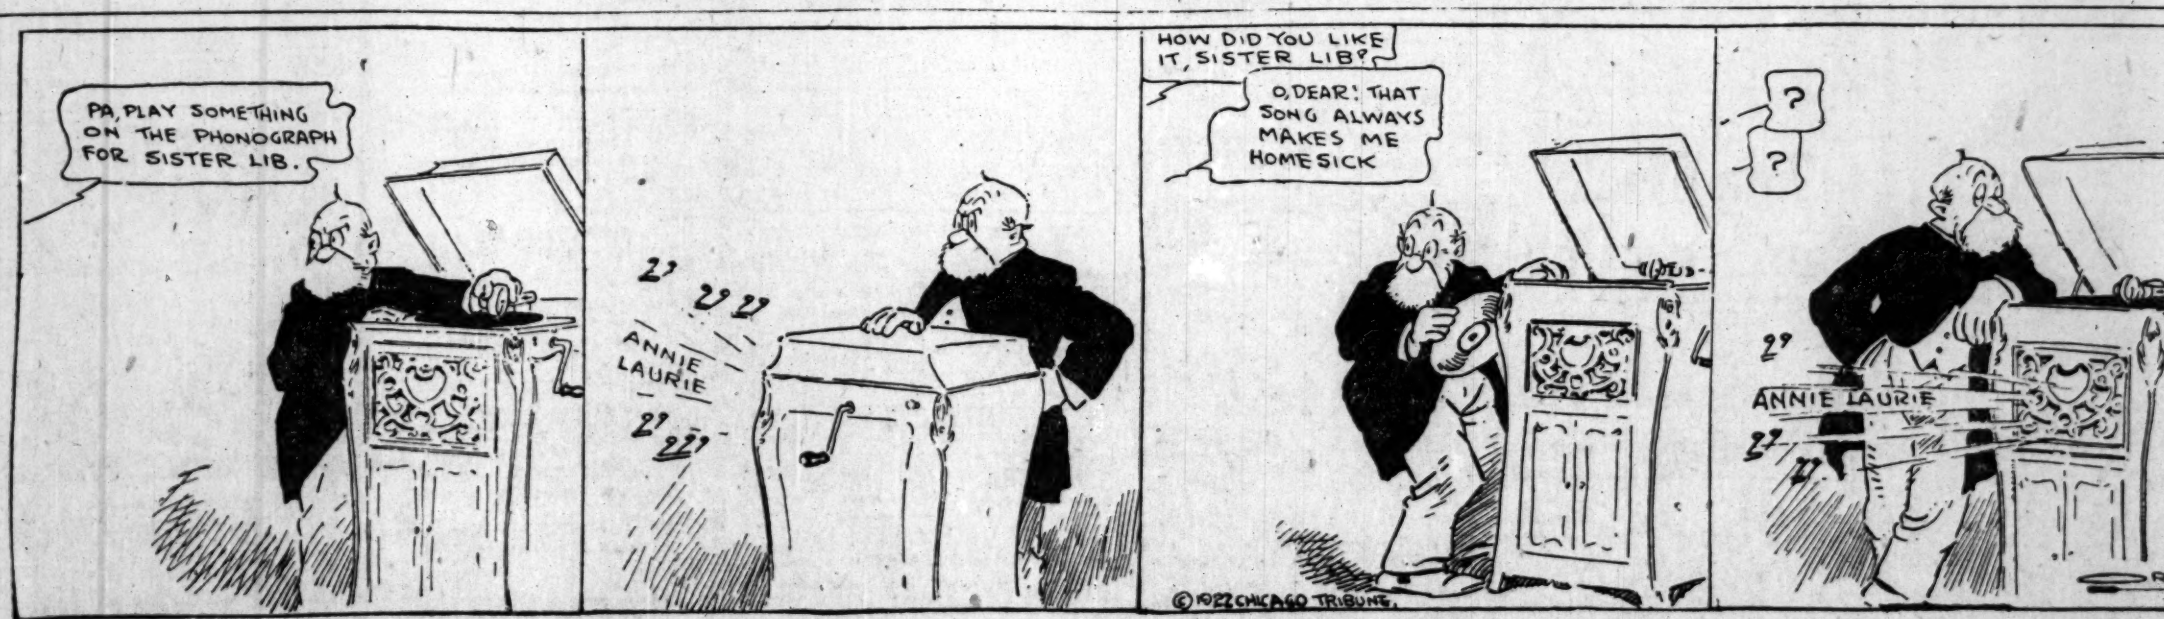

The three describe themselves as Ray Morris, son of the superintendent of the Chicago Shipbuilding company, 5147 Bennett avenue; Joseph Fischer, 1408 West Garfield boulevard, whose vocation is that of a butcher boy; and Frank Egan, 6629 Woodlawn avenue. He was arrested a year ago on a charge of robbery and has been on probation.

According to the police, the three have been victimizing loop department stores by having women pose as wives of prominent citizens who have charge accounts. They say they have obtained merchandise valued in excess of $5,000.

Man Screams and Falls
Dead in Movie House

Patrons of the Marshall theater at 1650 West Roosevelt were startled last night when Jacob Cantor, 62 years old, 1912 West Roosevelt road, suddenly rose in his seat, screamed and fell back. His wife, Anna, beside him, seized him, but he was dead. He had suffered from heart disease.

First love is something awful sometimes, isn't it? It hits like a torpedo and sticks like the seven-year itch. (For a terrible, little while.) It makes the most normal weird and unwary. The first love of a maid quite often wears a uniform. Anything with brass buttons usually does. Take the case of Kathleen O'Donnell.

She met an ambulance driver with a wonderful head of hair and a stinging mustache. He told her of what feats he had accomplished in France and how, if he only had money to go by medical books, he would be the doctor in charge of the ambulance, instead of the driver.

Word comes that E. Phillips Oppenheim is mad. It is alleged, he says that the famous play production, "The Mystery Road," bears no resemblance to his story.

Mabel Normand will not do the rags of a little boy in her next picture for Sennett, entitled "Suzanne." That is, the rags of a ragged little boy. All little boys not being ragged.

"The Prince and the Pauper," "Buster Brown" and "Just David," have been purchased for Jackie Coogan. Pearl White will, after completing her contract for Fox, go to Paris. To stay? We hope not.

Happy ending!

"First Love" is interesting, well put on, and acted. I don't see, though, how they ever failed to secure Lew Cody for the ambulance driver's role. Because it's a regular Lew Cody part. O'well, George Webb qualifies all right. And you'll add Miss Binney and Warner Baxter.

HAROLD TEEN—NOW HAROLD IS DUBIOUS!

CLOSEUPS

Films were, among other things, condemned as harmful to the public morals by the International Purty conference held here, it is said. To the point all things are impure, it would seem.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

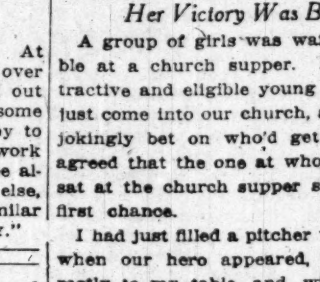

As you have given me help before, I am coming to you again. I have four children and expect the stork soon. I could use any little things I could get, and would gladly call for them. Thank you for all past favors. Mrs. F.

I am a shut-in, 15 years old. At present I am wearing a brace over my spine and legs. I do not get out at all during the winter. I do some fancy work and would be so happy to receive the embroidery floss and work that Carrie offers. Should these be already in the hands of some one else, please remember me when a similar offer is made. MARY.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscript returned.

Her Victory Was Brief.
A group of girls was waiting on a table at a church supper. A most attractive and eligible young doctor had just come into our church, and we had jokingly bet on who'd get him. We agreed that the one at whose table he sat at the church supper should have first chance.

A High Old Time.

I am a bachelor and have roomed at the same place a long time. The last year the landlady has taken in a number of school teachers. They do considerable cutting up and as they know I do not care, often go in my room to play my phonograph when I am out.

One Monday night, being unusually tired, I went home to bed, so that when the young women came in my light was out and I was dozing. I could hear them having a high old time, for it was Halloween. Suddenly my door opened. Then a finger pressed the light button (fortunately I had turned it off at the lamp) and an airy voice called out, "Anybody home?" Little expecting an answer. Can you imagine the wild fight when I answered: "Yes, I'm home." H. C.

Black Crepe Romain for Afternoon Wear

by Corinne Low

NEW YORK.—(Special correspondent.)—As we remember, Cinderella's glass slipper was tried on by many, and could be worn by none. In this respect a certain type of crepe frock reminds one of that legendary foot-gear. The only difference is that, whereas the various applicants to the glass slipper realized their limitations, the applicants to the particular crepe model are usually blinded by the smartness of the mode.

The model to which I refer is the slimy evening or dinner frock with no sleeves, a long bloused bodice, and a skirt that just falls. Let a thin woman wear this kind of dress and she looks like the old fashioned worm fence—the kind bristling with angles. It makes her appear to have as many facets as a diamond. Nor is the stout woman much more blessed by its selection. The fact of it is that this simple, sleeveless crepe is becoming only to every thousandth woman—she of perfect proportions.

As against the acidity of this type of crepe, we have the almost universal becomingness of the afternoon crepe shows here. This is of black crepe Romain, and it is beaded elaborately in gold and silver.

Doris Blake Says:

If your birthday is today, you are PENETRATIVE.
You have a penetrative eye and a penetrative mind. You are a born character reader. At first glance you can "size up" a person or a situation and rarely fail to hit the mark squarely and surely. Although you can see the bad points in people, it does not blind you to their virtues. Your character is well rounded out.

Fickle Creatures.
Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl, 18 years of age, and am going out with a fellow three years older. For the last few weeks he is paying attention to another girl, my former friend. Now I am wondering what to do, as I love this man dearly. ANXIOUS.

Dear dear, Anxious! Aren't they the fickle creatures? They cause us a lot of misery, which we have no right suffering for their ridiculous make-up. Now, on the face of it, isn't it foolish for you to be worrying about a chap who apparently is worrying over some other young lady? You just imagine you love him. If some one else came along this minute, wouldn't you be willing to flirt with him just a little? I'll wager you would.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Remember Big Hominy.

Some people prefer to specialize on the starchy foods for their winter fuel. Instead of fats. Yet of all the food groups we are most likely to get sufficient from this one, although we do not use all the variety of cereals that we might. It is generally reckoned that 60 per cent of the ordinary diet is made up of starchy things—bread, breakfast cereals, crackers, cake, pastries. There is an advantage in using the whole variety of the starches—vitamines, you know.

One cup of pearl hominy picked over, washed in several waters to remove loose starch, put into a four quart, closely covered kettle with eight cups of cold water, and cooked gently from three to eight hours—letting none of the water boil over—yields a dainty thing as delicate as though flavored with just a suggestion of vanilla. So cooked this may be used plain, buttered as a vegetable, with any pork product, especially fat sausage. Or it may be used with milk for a simple supper and be much like old fashioned hot suppers. Or use it for breakfast. Or put the solid part through the food grinder, mix with butter, make up into small patties, and bake like biscuits. It may be canned by cold pack methods and used in emergencies. It may be used for a soufflé in place of baked macaroni, etc.

Society Spends Busy Week End at Gala Concert and Opera

Society was out en masse for two musical events during the last two days, the presentation by the Chicago Opera company Saturday afternoon of John Alden Carpenter's ballet, "The Birth of the Infanta," and the gala concert last night at the Auditorium theatre for the benefit of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, and three French war charities. The box office receipts totaled about $22,000.

Among the most interested persons Saturday were five little girls who were accompanied by Mrs. Jacob Baur. They were Rosemary Baur, Barbara Wendell, Ann Elizabeth Walsh, Natalie Poor, and Emmeline Bush. The theatre was more crowded than it has been at any other performance of the season.

The concert last night was given by a distinguished group of artists. Selling programs were a group of junior league girls under the direction of Mrs. Robert M. Curtis. Assisting her were Miss Catherine Cooke, Miss Katherine Huling, Miss Margaret Hamilton, Miss Eleanor Holden, Miss Harriet McLaughlin, Miss Gertrude McCarthy, Miss Janet Pauling, and Miss Elizabeth Farwell.

Boys' Brotherhood.

The first of a series of three lectures under the auspices of the Boys' Brotherhood Republic committee of the Chicago Woman's club will be given this morning at 11 o'clock in the Reel hall, Fine Arts building, by Miss Zora Gale. The subject will be "The Dramatization of the Novel." The republic was founded in 1914 by Jack Robbins and is the largest independent boys' club in America. The new four "clubs" managed by her and boys.

Mrs. George J. Farnsworth of 1448 Astor street will open her residence to-day at 10:30 o'clock for the north side class in current events. Miss Julie R. Byrner will speak on "Irish Peace Negotiations."

Mrs. Arthur G. Leonard of 4801 Woodlawn avenue will give a luncheon today for the board of directors of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children.

The annual meeting of the woman's auxiliary of Grant hospital will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the hospital. Dr. William S. Petersen will address the meeting, after which Mrs. Gustav Hessert will serve tea.

Midland Authors.

The Society of Midland Authors will give its annual poetry dinner on Monday evening, Jan. 30. Witter Byrner and a Chinese scholar will be guests. Mr. Byrner, who is president of the Poetry Society of America, has returned recently from a year's stay in China where he translated "Three Hundred Pearls," and a volume of poetry from the "Tang dynasty." The guests will wear Chinese costumes. Eunice Tietjens is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Bard of the Moraine hotel have left for a stay of several months in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Kelly and Miss Helen Kelly are moving today to the Hotel Ambassador where they will reside for the balance of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Levy Mayer and the Marquise de Calvatore, who has been visiting them at the Blackstone left the latter part of last week for New York. The Marquise will meet her husband who arrives from Italy on the 18th, and Mr. and Mrs. Mayer have gone on to Washington to attend a dinner given tonight for Chief Justice Taft.

Mrs. Donald R. Wegg and Miss Mary Wegg of 47 East Elm street will be at home to their friends today after 4 o'clock. Miss Wegg made her debut at a reception at the Casino Nov. 5.

For Quaker Fund.

Mrs. Leonard R. Litsinger, chairman of the woman's committee for a benefit fund to aid the American Quaker fund for undernourished German children, has called a meeting of the committee to be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at her home, 1400 North State parkway.

Imposing Social Program for Week at Nation's Capital

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—This week opens with quite an imposing social program, the President and Mrs. Harding being the guests of honor at the reception to be held at the Congressional club tomorrow night, the dinner at the White House in honor of the diplomats Thursday night taking the place of the reception in their honor last week, and the dinner Wednesday night for the President and Mrs. Harding with the secretary of the treasury and Miss Mellon as hosts taking the place of Secretary Hughes' dinner last week. Mrs. Coolidge will be the guest of Mrs. Breckinridge Long at lunch Thursday, and Saturday, the secretary of state and Mrs. Hughes will be guests at dinner of the ambassador of Spain and Senora de Riano.

Admiral de Bon of the French delegation entertained at dinner last night at the New Willard, having as guests M. Senator Albert Sarraut, the ambassador of France and Mme. Jusserand, the minister of Switzerland and Mme. Frederick C. Hicks, the attaché of the French embassy at the Hotel de Chateaux. Mr. Kammerer, Maj. Dubreuil, Capt. Frochet, Capt. Fugitive Impressions Gathered on Marathon of 6 Sunday Concerts

By EDWARD MOORE.

John McCormack, at the Auditorium—An artist of broad sympathies and tastes, who will sing you an old Italian aria, a Russian art-song, an Irish folk song, and a light American ballad, and do them all with equal enthusiasm and equally well. A supreme expert in singing English, an adept in graceful, sustained tone. The nearest modern equivalent to the ancient bard of his native land, holding the audience breathless on the story of each song. Capacity audience, tumultuous and justified applause, many encores. Asisted by Donald "Teeth" violinist.

Jaucha Holtsen.—Orchestra hall—A wizard at evoking golden tones from the violin. If there is anything in violin literature he cannot play superbly, he has never tried it in Chicago. By virtue of fine, personality, and musical attainments he adds charm to everything he plays. Another capacity audience, more tumultuous and justified applause.

Vladimir Rosing, at the Playhouse—A Russian with an unusual manner. Program assembled on the theme, "The Soul of Russia," as expressed by the composers of that land. A rather light and not essentially beautiful voice, handled with extraordinary vigor. Each song an intense mood, a miniature drama. Of absorbing interest if you know the language or follow the book of words. Due for another recital next Sunday.

E. Robert Schmitz, at the Blackstone theater—A pianist with an impeccable, hand-drawn technique who specializes in the works of the modernists. Heard in first local performance of two pieces by Mariotte, "Decembre" and "Unlune," which appear to be efforts, not like successful, to put bits of our life into tone.

Elsuho Trio, at the Blackstone hotel—A talented and well schooled chamber music organization brought here by the Musical Guild of Illinois. Head of a delightful suite by Saint-Saens and part of the suite by H. Waldo Warner that took the prize at the last Berkshire festival competition, a work of some imagination and considerable scholarship.

STOCK MARKET'S MOVES PERPLEX; TREND ANALYZED

The New York Times.

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—

Long experience in more normal periods of world finance and industry had accustomed our business community to look to the stock market as indicating the condition and trend of the situation as a whole and to look to the bond market and foreign exchange market only as reflecting particular and temporary incidents.

At the present, however, the fluctuations of forecast and reflection seem to have been divided in an unusual way between the stock market, the foreign exchange market, and the bond market. Each of those markets has appeared for some time past to be governed almost exclusively by some one main influence in the economic situation, which was not a potent influence in the others.

It would probably be stating the case accurately to say that stock market prices have moved almost entirely in accordance with expectations regarding the course of events in our own country's business situation, that foreign exchange rates moved wholly with a view to prospective change for better or worse in the financial condition of Europe, and that bond market prices have directly reflected rise or fall of money rates and nothing else.

Present Position Peculiar.

It might be seemed as if these financial developments were so closely on another that each of them would have direct effect on all three markets. When our home production depends so largely on the export trade, improving economic conditions in western Europe might logically affect stock market sentiment. Easy money has often been a dominant influence both in the stock market and on foreign exchange rates. The present position is peculiar; it could not occur unless under very peculiar circumstances.

The stock market seems to reason that money is easy because of trade depression, so that the very influence which is sending investment capital into bonds is keeping it out of stocks, whose value depend on the profits and dividends of industries. Wall street has not yet learned the lesson that depression of foreign or worse in a foreign country than the London stock exchange studied them during so many years of its office as central investment market of the world.

Bond Market Sensitive.

Perhaps our stock exchange would move on similar lines if American capital, like England's in the last half of the nineteenth century, were to flow into European railway and industrial enterprises, as well as into European government loans.

At present, however, our bond market is a far more sensitive indicator of financial judgment on the position of foreign countries than is the stock market, while, as for the foreign exchange market, that may be said to voice the judgment entertained regarding conditions in foreign countries by the entire outside world, and not the judgment of our people alone or primarily.

Back of all this stands the singular fact that, whereas in all our financial history prior to 1915 a movement of foreign exchange rates against Europe was tantamount to a movement of rates in favor of America, as well as in favor of Europe and against New York.

America Knows Its Stake.

There is, however, nothing anomalous in that attitude. The stock market may not wish to reflect hope or discouragement regarding the economic restoration of Europe, but the American business community knows what sort of personal stake we have in Europe's financial recovery. From the old fashioned point of view, last week's statement of our foreign trade for 1921 would have been regarded as something calamitous.

Even ten years ago "the trade balance" was watched with as much concern as any other branch of financial statistics—which might make it seem singular that the decrease in last year's export surplus of $1,000,000,000 from 1920 and $2,000,000,000 from 1919, was received with no such commotion.

This export trade will, unquestionably, rise again from its low level of the last few months, but cannot expand normally and safely except as shipments of merchandise from European countries to the United States are correspondingly increased, giving those countries the chance to pay off such of the accumulated trade debt to the United States as is not funded into long term investment bonds.

Both the debt paying process and the funding process have now begun under favorable auspices and to the benefit of debtor and creditor. By all appearances the present year will mark an important further movement in the same direction with gradual economic revival on both sides of the Atlantic.

BUSINESS-NEWS IN BRIEF

BUYING SIDE OF WHEAT PREDICTS PRICE ADVANCE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat situation presents two distinct sides, with no big leader on either. Prospectively there is a great deal to be said in favor of the constructive side.

The grain trade is nearing the crop season, with the outlook in the United States and in parts of Europe such that a serious scare might develop in the near future. Should there be a decided increase in the volume of speculative buying, when it comes prices may advance sharply, and those who are rapidly to the buying side predict that within a short time values will be moving upward. Stocks are expected to decrease from now on.

On the other side of the market there is a close adjustment of supplies to requirements the world over, but no actual scarcity except in Russia and a few European consuming countries.

Argentina a Factor.
Argentina is offering wheat more freely and underselling other countries. Europe has little wheat with which to buy supplies, and is only taking hold as required. The trade above knows that enough wheat to go around and is not uneasy about future supplies.

Should the conference at Cannes fail to reach satisfactory trade agreements the situation will remain complicated and likely to have a discouraging effect.

A move will be made at the annual meeting of the Chicago Board of Trade today to have the directors appoint a committee to go to Washington and work for a reduction in the tax on the grain trade. With slow market the speculation cannot continue to pay the tax and exist for any length of time.

May wheat closed at $1.11½, 1½¢, off for the week; July, $1.04½, 1½¢, off for the week of 1½¢. Prices for the week follow:

Corn Market in a Rut.

Although the corn market has many friends, it is in a rut. Buying of nearly 1,000,000 bu for Russian relief, with prospects of its continuation, has failed to help the market.

Primary receipts of over 11,000,000 bu corn last week were the largest in the time in over five years, and shipments of 4,750,000 bu were also unusually heavy. Farmers are selling corn moderately, and the domestic trade is light.

January corn closed Saturday at 47¢; May at 52½¢, 2½¢, off for the week; with July 54½¢, 2½¢, off from the previous week. Prices for the week follow:

Oats Are Well Held.

Oats are well held by strong interests who are apparently buying on the decline, and when good reactions come they accommodate buyers with all they desire.

May closed Saturday at 35¢, 1½¢, off for the week; with July 37½¢, 1½¢, off from the previous week. Prices for the week follow:

Good Run of Hogs Expected.

Packers are mostly figuring on a large run of hogs, sufficient to supply external requirements and give local packers a liberal supply.

Export business has improved, and seaboard clearances show liberal gains. Domestic trade has also picked up, and the movement of meats from Chicago last week was more than double last year's.

Shorts were good buyers early in the week and a rally met liberal selling and a decline, with the close at intermediate figures, showing gains of 17½¢ on corn and 32½¢ on short ribs. Prices for the week follow:

Income Tax Blanks Will Be Ready Next Wednesday

Income tax blanks for individual incomes of $5,000 and less will be available next Wednesday, John C. Cannon collector of internal revenue, announced last night. They may be had at the federal building as well as branch offices at 4750 Broadway, 1214 North Ashland avenue, 802 West Madison street, 803 East 47th street, and 712 West 58th street. Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville.
A. T. G. Mauston, Wis. The Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway company (the Monon Route) is controlled jointly by the Louisville and Nashville and the Southern railway, which own a majority of its common stock. The company is issuing $3,000,000 of 5 percent bonds, series B, due May 1, 1926. These bonds are secured by the first and general mortgage, dated May 1, 1916, under which $2,261,000 series A 5 percent bonds are outstanding. The mortgage covers the company's entire property, being a first lien on forty-nine miles, a second lien on 509 miles, and a third lien on sixty-four miles. Prices amount to $1,172,000 and all prior mortgages are closed for the nine and one-half years to Dec. 31, 1921. A deficit in 1920 was largely exceeded by its claim against the government. Earnings in 1921 were good and the road resumed dividend payment on the common stock in December. Dividends of 4 percent on the preferred have been paid continuously since 1901. These bonds are a well secured investment suitable for the funds of a business man.

Brown Brothers Lumber.
J. H. C. Hooper, Ill.—The $500,000 close was steady to strong, though foreign bonds have been generally steady, with an upward tendency first on the improvement in exchanges. The French issues subsequently reacted with France's political upheaval. Home rails were quite a feature, demand for financing purposes, spreading to the rail rebate section, with other issues rising considerably in sympathy. Industrials were cheered by the immediate success of two new issues of the Richard Thomas and Union Castle line debentures.

As to the future—a solution of the French political crisis and a reduction in the bank rate are possible "bull" factors and the outlook is more promising than it has been in some time.

Capital Traction.
C. C. The Capital Traction company owns street railway lines in Washington, D. C., and a suburban line that city to Chevy Chase, Md. It operates all 65.7 miles of track. The company now has outstanding about $5,606,000 of 5 percent bonds, due 1947. They are a first lien on all property of the company in the District of Columbia. The company's franchises are perpetual. Its property and equipment are valued at over three and one-half times these bonds, which are the only funded debt. Average net earnings available for the five years to Dec. 31, 1920, were over 4.4 times annual interest requirements and for 1920 were nearly six times such charges. The bonds are well secured and have a wide margin of safety. They are a sound investment.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Cheerfulness has again been the generally prevalent note in stock exchange circles during the last week. At first the probable solution of the Irish difficulties and the great progress made at Cannes were "bull" points. Subsequently the pace eased off, but even the French political crisis did not have much effect on the markets. The

A Letter from Lord Northcliffe

to the Editor of The Saturday Evening Post

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST covers the Continent of North America from the Arctic to the Isthmus. Wherever the white man goes The Post goes with him. It has followed the flag to the Philippines, to Hawaii, to Porto Rico. After their letters from home, it was the first thing demanded by our armies in France.

Recently Mr. Marcossou found it in the libraries of European statesmen and financiers, and again in the hands of American engineers on the banks of the Congo. It has thousands of readers in Great Britain and on the Continent of Europe. It is sold in India, in Australia, in South Africa, in China, in Japan, in Cuba, and in South America. An enormous number of copies that have been read and re-read in American homes and offices are mailed to relatives and friends living in every part of the world.

Not only to the American abroad, but to the foreigner as well, it is the most interesting and representative of all American periodicals. It brings the world to America; it takes America to the world.
